HEALTHY WATER QUALITY RETURNS TO THE NEW RIVER AFTER HELENE

The New River, prized in many parts of the watershed for its clean and free-flowing waters, has seen water quality levels quickly return to normal after hurricane Helene. As always, heavy rains may affect water quality over a short period, but no long-term negative effects from last year's storm have been identified in testing done by staff and volunteers for the New River Conservancy Water Watchers.

Since hurricane Helene, the New River Conservancy (NRC) has conducted over 100 water quality tests providing the North Carolina and Virginia Departments of Environmental Quality and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency with a robust data set. John Copeland, former Virginia New River fisheries biologist and current Water Quality Manager for the New River Conservancy states, "Our data indicate no lasting or significant changes to water quality from hurricane Helene."

Summer Bucket list

Eco-Friendly Summer Fun in Ashe County

Looking for meaningful ways to enjoy the season while keeping it green? Here are some fun, earth-conscious ideas for summer in Ashe:

- ☞ Pack a zero-waste picnic at Mount Jefferson State Natural Area.
- ☞ Tube or kayak down the New River—bring a trash bag or an orange mesh bag provided by KAB at some outfitters and at the New River State Parks and do a mini clean-up as you float.
- ☞ Shop local farmers markets for fresh, in-season produce and handmade goods.
- ☞ Join or host a neighborhood litter sweep-make it a fun event with friends or family.
- ☞ Hike and leave no trace on one of our scenic trails like Pond Mountain, Three Top, or Paddy Mountain (where the bear-proof trash bin donated by KAB is located).
- ☞ Attend or volunteer at a river cleanup-give back while soaking up sunshine.
- ☞ Start a pollinator garden with native plants to support bees and butterflies.
- ☞ Explore Ashe County on foot or bike instead of driving-great for the planet and your health.
- ☞ Host a community swap for clothes, books, or kids' toys—reduce waste and save money.
- ☞ Camp under the stars and teach kids about conservation and nature.
